Shipping Tieup Developing At Eastern Ports

Expect 1,000 Vessels To Be Affected By Shipping Strike

NEW YORK, June 16.—(INS)—Creeping paralysis overtook the shipping industry on the Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports today as 80,000 CIO maritime workers carried out "no-contract-no-work" instructions of their leaders.

President Joseph Curran, who heads 60,000 members of the CIO National Maritime Union, sent telegrams early today to his port agents advising them the union had failed to reach agreement with representatives of 40 shipping companies.

The negotiating session, carried on under the chairmanship of Assistant Chief Federal Mediator Clyde Mills, continued for 45 minutes beyond yesterday's midnight deadline and then was recessed, probably until Monday.

Also involved in the negotiations are the CIO American Radio Association and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

Some 1,000 vessels are expected to be affected when the tieup becomes complete.

In instructions to port agents the word "strike" was taboo. The union leaders merely informed their local officers that since the old contracts expired at midnight the workers were not expected to report to their jobs.

Frank J. Taylor, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, appealed to President Truman to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, which would require written notice of an intent to strike.

Truman Refuses Action

The president refused and urged a continuation of efforts to settle the dispute after Curran promised him that "essential goods necessary to the national safety and welfare will move uninterrupted."

Union demands include a wage increase; a 40-hour work-week at sea instead of the present 48, at no loss in pay; improved vacation provisions and removal of alleged inequities in pay scales.

Some sailings were delayed before the strike deadline since crews signed on for long voyages did not want to be caught at sea when the strike was called.

Montreal Fire Death Toll May Be Increased

At Least 31 Lives Are Lost In Fire; Nine Are Missing

(BULLETIN)

MONTREAL, June 16.—(INS)—The death toll mounted to a believed 50 persons today in the fire which swept thru a Montreal Roman Catholic Home For Orphans And The Aged yesterday.

The Grey Nuns Order which cared for the nearly 400 inmates of the 75-year-old Hospice St. Cunegonde said 32 bodies have been recovered from the charred ruins, and 18 persons are missing and presumed dead.

MONTREAL, June 16.—(INS)—A grim search was in progress today for charred remains of further victims of the fire which yesterday swept through a Montreal Roman Catholic home for orphans and the aged and claimed at least 31 lives.

Headquarters of the Grey Nuns order which cared for the nearly 400 inmates of the 75-year-old Hospice St. Cunegonde said that nine persons still remained unaccounted for.

Hope was held throughout the night that the nine missing persons had found shelter elsewhere after occupants who were able to quit the blazing structure were rushed from the fiery scene.

The blaze, which rushed through the structure at lunch time yesterday left the building a blackened shell which appeared near collapse.

Occurred at Lunch Time

The fact that the fire occurred around lunch time, undoubtedly prevented a much larger list of casualties. The victims mainly were aged women who occupied upper floors.

The mother superior of the home died in the swift-moving blaze. Mother Superior Rita Gervais was trapped on the fifth floor after making several heroic trips inside the flaming building to lead her charges from danger.

Cause of the blaze was believed to have been a worker's blow (Continued on Page Two)

Red Forces Are Moving Up New Reinforcements

Lt. Gen. Van Fleet Says New Red Drive May Be Expected

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, June 16.—Communist forces moved up reinforcements toward the Korean front today and the top American field commander warned that a new Red offensive may be expected.

Lt. Gen. James A. VanFleet, commander of the International Eighth Army, told newsmen in a frontline conference that a "third round" in the Red spring offensive apparently is imminent.

Van Fleet stated that the fall of the enemy "Iron Triangle" supply and staging area in central Korea was "a great loss" to the Communists but added that they have "the capability" of launching another attack.

The American general said that the Communist leaders may be planning to commit reserves which have not yet been used.

During a stopover at the First Marine Division command post, Van Fleet declared that the objective of the Communist forces is still "to drive us into the sea."

New Red Movements

Van Fleet's warning came simultaneously with reports on new Communist vehicular movements from Manchuria into North Korea.

This information coupled with Van Fleet's statement was the basis for predictions that the Reds may be setting up a new defense line possibly in the vicinity of Kumsong which lies 29 miles above the 38th parallel. Kumsong is 12 miles northeast of Kumbha, southeastern anchor of the fallen enemy "Iron Triangle."

Ground contact with the enemy was light Friday and early Saturday. UN forces confined themselves to patrols which ran into stiff but scattered resistance. On the east-central front above Inje, (Continued on Page Two)

Writer-Passenger Loses Life In Crash Of Plane

NEW YORK, June 16.—(INS)—While Lieut. Col. Robert D. Curtis is recovering in Base hospital at Mitchell field today from the crash of his F-94 jet plane into Long Island Sound, part of the body of a man, believed to be that of William Freedman, his writer-passenger, was recovered from the water near the scene.

Col. Curtis, of Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida, was piloting the new all-weather jet interceptor during an aerial show of some of the nation's new fighting planes when the accident occurred yesterday. With a foot of wing tip sheered off, he calmly discussed rescue operations for 15 minutes with his passenger and by radio with the ground and a rescue plane before (Continued on Page Two)

Gen. MacArthur Completing His Tour Of Texas

Again Denies Any Interest In Politics; At Ft. Worth Today

By BOB CONSIDINE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

DALLAS, June 16.—Gen. MacArthur visits Fort Worth today and then flies back home to New York to complete a whirlwind Texas tour during which he blasted the administration's "invisible government based upon propaganda."

The 71-year-old deposed U. N. supreme commander was hailed by 27,500 Texas admirers at Dallas' Cotton Bowl last night. He acknowledged the welcome by hoping his four-day "grass-roots" tour might be getting results.

"Policy Vacuum"

MacArthur re-examined the Korean campaign and decried the existing policy vacuum by condemning the administration's "counsel of fear."

He lashed out at those military and civil leaders who have testified that if MacArthur's programs were adopted it might lead to world war III. Then, he boomed: "If all other evidence were ignored, our mounting dead (in Korea) would alone stand as mute (Continued on Page Two)

TEHRAN, June 16.—The Iranian government backed down temporarily today on its stiff stand regarding refunds from the Anglo-Iranian Oil company amid reports that an American vice-consul has been stabbed by a fanatic in the textile city of Isfahan.

Details of the stabbing incident were fragmentary and the diplomat concerned was not identified.

The United States Embassy in Tehran had no official information but the first report said the American official was not seriously injured.

Isfahan, famed throughout the centuries for its carpet-weaving, was described as being in a state of industrial unrest.

Preparing Blast Against Proposed New Tax Bill

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Six GOP members of the House Ways and Means Committee today prepared a blast against the $7,233,000,000 tax increase bill.

They will attempt, when the bill is voted on next week, probably Thursday, to have it returned to committee or amended.

The six are Reed, N. Y.; Simpson, Pa.; Martin, Iowa; Mason, Ill.; Jenkins, Ohio; and Curtis, Nebr. All voted against the bill when it was reported out by the committee yesterday.

The 19 members who voted for the bill were 15 Democrats and four Republicans, the latter including Kean, N. J.; Holmes, Wash.; and Byrnes, Wis. It was also reported that Woodruff, Mich., (Continued on Page Two)

Truman Heads For New Clash With Congress

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS)—President Truman was headed for another clash with congress today over his announcement he is taking advantage of a loophole in the recently-passed law to cut off aid to foreign nations which do business with the Communist countries.

The National Security Council headed by Mr. Truman announced late Friday that it will ignore for 90 days the so-called Kohn amendment.

The amendment written into an appropriations bill several weeks ago permits the security council to make the restriction inoperative for a three-month period and the defense planning group declared it is doing so on a general basis to permit study of the trade ban.

Expect Repercussions

The action was expected to result in immediate repercussions in the House and Senate, both of which approved the amendment sponsored by Sen. Ken (R) Mo., by almost unanimous votes.

Mr. Truman in accepting the appropriation bill with the "rider" attached warned that he planned to grant "broadscale exceptions" to (Continued on Page Two)

Admit Two U.S. Jet Planes Landed In Czechoslovakia

(BULLETIN)

PRAGUE, June 15.—(INS)—The Czechoslovak foreign ministry admitted today that two United States jet fighters which have been missing for eight days after taking off from Bavaria on a training flight had landed on Czech soil.

A statement by Czech foreign minister Viliam Siroky said that the pilots, one an American and the other a Norwegian, were unhurt in the landing.

Siroky informed the United States embassy that the pilots are "well and happy."

The foreign minister said that an investigation on the circumstances of the arrival of the planes by his government has not yet been concluded.

On Wednesday the American embassy disclosed that it was investigating reports that the jet planes which disappeared a week ago Friday had landed in Czechoslovakia.

Secretary Lie Seeks Early End Of U.N. Session

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., June 16.—U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie today pressed for early adjournment of the general assembly on the ground that the 60-nation body is an obstacle to Korean truce efforts.

A British spokesman disclosed that Lie consulted Sir Gladwyn Jebb and other delegates on that issue and appealed for support on adjournment. Jebb returned the request to his home government, which is understood to be against Lie's plan.

It is understood that the United States also opposes assembly adjournment from the standpoint that this might be regarded as a possible confession of weakness in determination to end the Korean war by negotiation.

Other objections cropping out of the Lie plan are that adjournment of the assembly will leave the "good offices" committee and the sanctions group high and dry since both are obligated to report directly to the assembly.

NORTH BEND, Neb., June 16.—(INS)—Four Omaha, Neb., residents were killed today when their auto was struck by the Union Pacific's eastbound Los Angeles Limited at a private crossing a half-mile east of North Bend.

the largest Allied gain—2,000 yards—was registered. The Eighth Army's Saturday evening communiqué said that a battalion-sized enemy group of about 800 soldiers offered moderate to stubborn resistance north-northeast of Inje.

Spot Moving Vehicles
During the night, Allied warplanes spotted 500 enemy vehicles moving south toward the battle zone. This gave rise to the belief that the Communists may plan to set up a new defense line across the peninsula stretching from Kaeson in the west to Wonsan on the east coast.

This line runs about 100 miles from Kaeson which is on the 38th Parallel border north of Wonsan. Wonsan has been under continuous bombardment by UN warships for almost four months. The Kaeson-Wonsan line is the shortest geographical route across the peninsula from the sea of Japan on the east to the Yellow Sea on the west.

Tokyo observers pointed out that if UN forces seized Wonsan as they did last year this would be a most serious threat to the Communists in Korea for it would give the UN armies a port big enough to receive a quick and large flow of men and material 100 miles deep in North Korea.

UN warships have been blasting the East Korean port of Wonsan and Songjin for months. The only opposition has come from Red shore batteries.

PREPARING BLAST AGAINST NEW TAX BILL

Issue Report Tuesday
Committee Chairman Doughton (D) N. C. said his majority group will issue its report on the bill Tuesday, at which time the six Republicans also will make known the reasons for their opposition. The four Republicans who voted for the bill may issue a supplementary report explaining their views.

Doughton will ask the Rules Committee to clear the bill to the floor Monday under a "closed rule." This would bar all but committee amendments except for an overall amendment which Republicans could offer just before the final vote. This is known as the recommittal motion.

This is the usual procedure employed by both Democrats and Republicans in handling tax bills. The last time other than committee amendments were permitted from the floor so many were added to the bill that it became unworkable and had to be returned to the committee.

General debate is slated to open Wednesday and conclude Thursday, with the vote on final passage probably coming immediately thereafter.

The committee fell short of the 10 billion dollars in new revenue requested by President Truman. Major revenue increases provided in the bill are:

Individual income taxes, $2,854,000,000; corporation income and excess profits taxes, $2,855,000,000; excise (consumer) taxes, $852,000,000; gambling receipts, $400,000,000; withholding tax on corporation dividends and interest, $348,000,000.

he had to "ditch." He was picked up after blasting himself free with an automatic seat ejector, but Freedman was thought to have gone down with the plane.

Formerly, Freedman, 39, president of Air Coverage, an agency handling aviation articles, and considered an expert on Soviet aircraft, had been scheduled for a flight in another plane, but wasn't there when the flight was called.

Curtis flew the jet as long as possible, in an effort to save his passenger, who "couldn't swim," he radioed the ground. He was advised to ditch in the sound nevertheless, and told an amphibian would be nearby. Curtis came down to 5,000 feet and was doing about 35 miles an hour when he had to hit the silk about 10 miles east of the Eaton Neck Coast Guard station.

Freedman, apparently, could not follow the pilot's instructions to parachute to safety.

torch. A worker at the time was repairing an elevator. Once the fire was started it swept quickly up an elevator shaft and trapped those on the top floor of the five-story building.

Several of the victims were blind or crippled and were unable to reach exits which would have given them escape.

Firemen who fought the blaze which raged out of control for two hours were at first hampered by thousands of Montrealers who rushed to the scene.

that if MacArthur returns and introduces any new matters, the joint chiefs of staff also will be invited to reappear.

To Give Approval
Both Sens. Bridges (R) N. H., and Knowland (R) Cal. designated to represent the minority on procedure in the inquiry, said they thought Republicans in the full joint committee would approve the program recommended by a subcommittee.

Russell announced that the subcommittee now hopes to bring the hearings to a close before June 30, the target date suggested by Sen. Hunt (D) Wyo. The subcommittee announced only a "drastic" reduction in its witness list, but it was reliably reported to be a flexible figure baring up to nine or ten.

The full committee meets Monday morning to make a decision on future procedure, including the question of whether to call W. Averell Harriman, presidential foreign policy adviser, as the next witness.

June And Brides And Roses— And We'll Do Our Share

This is the month set apart particularly for brides. Maybe it's the magic of the late spring — or the promise of Dame Nature for lovely days ahead.

Maybe it is because this is the month of roses. But whatever it is, June and brides and roses are a trio.

We can do nothing about furnishing the bride—and the month is here—but we can do a lot in the matter of flowers for the bride—and the bridesmaids, too.

Bridal work is a specialty with us. Perhaps we're partial to brides. That's why we specialize in bridal work.

YOUR MAYOR SHOULD KNOW WHAT PEOPLE ARE THINKING

The mayor of New Castle, like other governmental heads, should know what the people of his city are thinking.

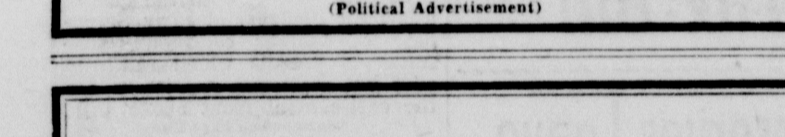

Unless he does know he can not always be sure what their problems are. It seems to me a mayor would be wise to surround himself with a representative group of citizens in an unofficial advisory capacity. If nominated and elected mayor here is what I propose to do.

Name an advisory committee of citizens. On this committee would be representative of industry, labor, business, the law, medicine, teaching, clergy, transportation, Parent-Teachers Associations, housewives and other groups.

About once a month I would ask them to sit down with me in conference and discuss the affairs of the city, suggest improvements, and ask them for their counsel in matters pertaining to us all.

There's no law for such a committee, but there is no law against it either and it sounds to me like good sense. At least I would like to try the idea out. With your help on July 24 at the Republican primary I will be able to do it.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Says Europe Will Unite

"Europe will unite 'bit by bit'!" This was a veteran, realistic but still eternally hopeful European statesman and diplomat talking—Count Carlo Sforza, foreign minister of the Italian republic.

Statement was made just prior to the arrival in Rome of West German Chancellor and Foreign Minister Dr. Konrad Adenauer for a series of important conferences.

And while far from discouraging, it served to sweep away some of the Utopian dreams that by one means or another short of the catastrophe inevitable in an atomic war, the nations of the continent can be knit together in a solid entity like the United States, with traditions and rivalries dating back through the centuries erased overnight.

Sforza, who left Italy with the advent of Benito Mussolini and spent the years of fascism in the United States, is equally at home with both American and European history.

He knows the obstacles that stand in the way of full-scale European unity in times of peace.

He understands the barriers inherent in varying customs and languages, the difficulties raised by tariffs and duties, the age-old European practice of border inspections which to American travelers seem like imports from behind the "iron curtain."

But he has never abandoned hope that some means can be found to tear down these barriers, many of them artificial, and fuse the European continent into a cooperative federation.

Sforza lays much stress on the fact that western Germany and Italy are attempting to take the lead in European unity by virtue of their comparatively new roles as republics.

Knows the Obstacles

In sharp contrast with Adenauer are his conferences with the old days of the Rome-Berlin axis when Mussolini and Adolf Hitler got together amid salutes and fanfares.

But there was one slight and wholly coincidental resemblance. Sforza and Adenauer (although less volubly) are critical of Great Britain for London's aloofness from the affairs of the continent. This British attitude applies, among other things, to the Schuman plan and the council of Europe.

Even as things are, both of these vast concepts may be endangered in Sunday's French elections. For a governmental overthrow could install a nationalistic cabinet or one lacking in positive policies, with the result that numerous European undertakings might become bogged down indefinitely.

Britain Not Doing Share?

But over and above this, most European nations feel that the British are not doing their entire share in the cause of unity because of preoccupation with commonwealth preference and the essential needs of their own industry.

There is doubtless much to be said for the British point of view. But the continent refuses to become convinced that the present divisions between Britain and the continent are fully justified. Among the arguments in opposition are these:

- 1—Britain is never safe from invasion despite her moat of surrounding waters, and the land have to fend off any enemy manpower surge across the channel.
- 2—Britain's attention to the commonwealth is at variance with her announced policy of extending independence to one dominion or colonial area after another.
- 3—The British flag is no longer a symbol of power in the far east as the Korean war has proved that American men, money and materials from the bulk of Democratic hindrance to communist aggression.

Adenauer said on his arrival in Rome that he places "great hope" in his meeting with Sforza and Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

It seems quite probable that they will attempt to draft a new blueprint of European cooperation and try to make it so practical that it will be impossible to stay isolated.

This would be an accomplishment unique in history.

Folks Of Fame

Born in Baltimore, Md., November 17, 1896, Sen. Herbert O'Connor was admitted to the Maryland bar in 1919. He served as assistant state's attorney for Baltimore, then state's attorney. He was attorney general of his state; then its governor—1939-47. He was elected United States senator in 1947, and is now chairman of the Senate crime investigation committee, replacing Senator Estes Kefauver, who is still, however, serving on the commission.

Jacqueline Cochran was born in Pensacola, Fla., and raised in Columbus, Ga. She left school at an early age to go to work. After three weeks' training she won her pilot's license and has flown commercial, transport and Army pursuit planes and bombers. She was the only woman to fly the McRobertson London-Melbourne race in 1934; first woman to fly in the Bendix Transcontinental (U. S.) race that same year, and winner of first place in the women's division, and third place against a field of men in Bendix race of 1937. She was winner of the 1938 Bendix race, took second in 1946 and third place in 1948. She was appointed director of Women Pilots, U. S. Air Forces in 1943, after having headed the Woman Pilot Training program of the Air Forces for several months. She holds the international and United States 3,000-kilometer records, and is the only woman to receive the Distinguished Service medal.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CASE OF DIFFICULT OLDER CHILD

As a rule, the older of two children under four or five is the harder to manage. Ever so many mothers, after listing all the naughty, stubborn ways of the older child, refer to the baby as perfect.

Usually the older child is so bad because the baby is so good. Even in school, many a child lags or misbehaves because a younger brother or sister learns so fast that he behaves so well. The older child, facing more rebukes and punishments and winning fewer approvals than the younger, is sure he is not loved as much as the younger. This feeling of jealousy then causes the older child to do more bad things for which he gets more disapprovals, resulting in more jealousy. On up goes the spiral which is hard to break.

Older Youngster

While the older youngster can't be condoned in his stubbornness or naughtiness, merely to try to correct his behavior rarely brings desirable results. He needs to have more love and appreciation. He needs to enjoy more successes. To this end it takes no end of parental patience and wisdom.

"Dear Dr. Myers: I would appreciate it very much if you could help me in dealing with my boy who is nearly three years old. I have a girl, one and a half, who is very pleasant, happy and minds me very well. I couldn't ask for a better baby and she gets very little attention; but my three-year-old is just the opposite. Some days I feel as though I cannot stand to be around him. Nothing ever pleases him. He will do nothing I tell him except by force (for example, no matter what I fix him to eat, he always waits something else and then he doesn't want that either). When I give him a nap, he cries for one or two hours and then sometimes doesn't go to sleep.

Does No Good

"Another thing, about a year ago I had him trained; now he wets himself all of the time. When I ask him to sit on the toilet, I always have to force him. I have tried smacking but it does no good.

"My husband tells me I do not punish him enough. Do you think that is true? We both play with him every day and he plays with other children except when they are in school. I would try anything to make him a happy child. I have enclosed a self-addressed stamped envelope."

Enclosing my bulletins "Stubbornness," "Jealousy" and "Toilet Training" (to be had by anybody else) by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y., I answered this mother about like this:

When all is well, cuddle that lad tenderly, even rock him and sing to him. You and Dad should often read to him and make things with him. Answer all his questions kindly and try to have fun with him. Don't marvel at the good ways of the baby in his presence. Praise this lad often for his good deeds. Don't smack him to get him to do what you wish, but only for a very few things he must never do (and what you easily can check). You might be able to abandon spanking if, when he occasionally needs punishment, you make him sit in a chair for 15 minutes instead. See that the baby does not impose on him and mess up his things. Do study carefully my bulletins on stubbornness and try to be more calm and patient with this little person, too.

From Me To You

By MESEFALL

If you are in business . . . or work for a retail business concern . . . you have an idea if business is better than a certain period the year before . . . or five years before . . . or just the opposite. However not everyone has the opportunity to tell just how their community is doing . . . therefore we have colleagues . . . business concerns . . . and the government making surveys . . . attempting to determine how well off we all are . . . or how far we have slipped since such and such a time. Seems as if . . . the years 1935 to 1939 have been chosen as representing "business-as-usual" years . . . and the index centers therewith 1935-39 representing 100 percent.

Some wages are controlled by the cost of living . . . and they mean that the cost percentage wise has gone up so much from the above-mentioned period. At the beginning of May 1951 . . . the index says that food prices stood at 222.4% . . . and that all items, from the retail market, averaged 185.9% . . . What does that mean . . . well we check back and find that in February 1951 food was up to 223.5% . . . looks on paper, like the cost of eating is coming down.

These recent figures made us wonder about our own community of New Castle . . . found that figures were available . . . and a comparison was made with 19 communities in Pennsylvania . . . New Castle stands at the present time . . . second on the list . . . Bethlehem takes first honors with about 42% increase in business over like period of last year . . . New Castle had a 40% increase . . . last on the list was Sharon . . . with a 20% loss over the same period of 1950.

Such percentage increases are based on bank debits, postal receipts, telephones, factory employment and payrolls . . . giving a very good cross section of any community. Nice to be living in New Castle . . . not setting the world on fire, but good and steady with very nice people.

French Elections Effect Seen

WASHINGTON, June 16.—When the French elections are finally out of the way, a great many people are hoping that delays and uncertainties over the North Atlantic defense command will be eliminated. One of the hopefuls is General Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of NATO, who had been throttling a vast impatience to get on with the job.

Communist propaganda throughout the campaign has hammered incessantly on the theme that NATO is a United States show designed to reduce Europe to an American satellite. France, so the communist line goes, is being turned over to America acre by acre. One result of this insistent and pervasive propaganda was the law requiring the payment of duty on materials imported from the United States into France to build NATO bases. When he was in Paris, General Omar Bradley discussed this law with Finance Minister Jules Moch. Moch frankly admitted that it was an unfortunate development, forced by left wing pressure, which could perhaps be corrected with the formation of a more stable government based on the hoped-for showing of middle ground parties in the election on Sunday.

Some Evident Result

Yet, in spite of difficulties and delays accentuated by the election campaign, returning visitors—both congressional and military—report there considerably greater than had been expected to find. The recent arrival of American troops, coupled with the stimulation that Eisenhower has given to the whole defense effort in Europe, has produced evidence of both resolution and effort.

French production is nearly 140 percent of the pre-war level. The speed of armament production calls for allocation of what some American observers believe to be almost too great a proportion of French resources. The French economy has long been suffering from the strains of inflation.

War Not Imminent

The current hope owes a great deal to the conviction which appears to be taking root throughout Europe that war is not imminent. The hurdle of the spring is now over. For most Europeans this has been a dread season. It was believed the Russians might decide to move before the North Atlantic coalition had time to build strength.

But now that this much-heralded danger appears past, there is an enormous sense of relief. And with it comes the belief, which seems to be based on hardly more than passionate hope, that there will be no war in 1951 or 1952 and in all probability not before late 1953.

However frail the foundation for this conviction, responsible Europeans are reported to be acting on it. The paralyzing fear that Russian troops would march into a defenseless western Europe is diminishing and as a consequence industrialists are finding the resolution to renovate factories and build up inventory.

Can Cut Two Ways

So far as the combined defense effort goes, this newly-found conviction can cut two ways. It can stimulate essential arms production. But if the danger is actually so far in the future—and we in this country should remember that Europe has been living from week to week and almost from day to day on the edge of a precipice—then it might encourage a revival of the business-as-usual psychology and a general relaxation.

Means Patience

This above all means patience from the American side in creating the command. The easiest and simplest way, of course, would be to skip all the difficulties of co-operation and set up an almost entirely U. S. show. That would get around the kind of delay which occurs when country X is asked to assign a staff officer to the command and months go by without any response.

For those on the spot it is not easy. They have seen the turmoil of the French election campaign, how down that was needed to be done quickly. To realize the situation you have only to think of the upheaval in this country in October of 1952 with a fiercely fought presidential campaign roaring to a conclusion.

The French election law is about as complicated and weird as one could possibly imagine. But the hope of the free world is that out of this strange contraption will come a government of France that can govern with stability and confidence.

They Say

WASHINGTON—President Truman: "In the next few months, as shortages of civilian goods develop, the danger of inflation will become more and more serious. They want to take the hardest, toughest kind of controls to keep prices from going through the roof."

HOUSTON, Tex.—General MacArthur after he was made an "honorary sheriff." I've been in the army 52 years trying to secure the peace. I feel now, with this badge, that I can keep the peace."

PARIS—Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff: "I advocate greater air power. We must increase it and continue to increase it not only as a deterrent to war, but if war comes so we can win with all three arms, air, sea and land."

New Orleans—Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D. La., who witnessed the recent A-bomb tests at Eniwetok: "I have seen and heard the greatest explosion ever created by man in the history of the world."

BATTERY CARE

Garage men say that the battery should receive good care. It should be kept fully charged and have plenty of water.

People sometimes forget that the human battery needs good care, too. It needs to be charged every day.

Such needs at least eight hours in bed to charge his battery. He has a high speed motor and it runs all the time. If he does not get eight hours sleep every night, his battery will not keep things going right.

Butch is pretty busy with school and television and baseball and Sunday school and the lawn mower and Mom's odd jobs but eight hours in the hay will keep his battery on duty.

Hints To June Brides

By PAUL GALLICO

This is the time for this department's annual hints to June brides on how to keep the beautiful brand new husband they have just acquired, who at this moment looks so beautiful, pristine and fresh, so scrubbed and shiny, so ecstatically happy and eager-beaverish, but who, if not handled with loving care, can begin to look frayed and shopworn around the edges twelve months from now already.

We try not to repeat ourselves in these useful and educational lectures and usually devote this space at this time to a kind of summing up of the how-to-keep-a-husband hints acquired since last taking the platform.

Nevertheless, this day we are coming up with an oldie, and by request, which is that the surest way of taking the first glorious gloss off the state of matrimony is to let your proud and ever-loving male see you around the house in the morning looking like last week's laundry bag.

Shun the kimono, the wrapper, the slacks, the house-coat, sister, there must be some other garment that drapes the form, fills the eye and pleases the senses besides the expensive negligee into which you can climb from the time you arise in the morning until your lord and master departs for the marts of trade.

Get Up And Get Dressed

My suggestion is that you get up and get dressed. I know. Unheard of! Revolutionary! Asking too much! Gallico has gone off his rocker! Cancel the subscription!

You girls don't scare me one bit. For I am a man I know whereof I speak. Next to the unquestioned attraction of vice versa in the evening, there is nothing quite so pleasing and delightful to a man than to see his wife about the house in the morning, neatly and fully clad in something like skirt, belt and blouse or sweater, face washed, hair combed and a touch of carmine at the lips.

Do you know how long it takes to get that way, starting from scratch when the alarm goes off? Six minutes, fourteen and two-fifths seconds, Greenwich Mean Time. You get up, make the bathroom before His Majesty does, dab the eyes and the expression with cold water to freshen them up, comb and brush the snails out of the locks, leap into girdle, stockings and outer clothing, including shoes instead of rundown slippers or lopsided mules, make with the paint-stick once around the map, and there you are.

Just A Flash Front

You don't bother to make a thing out of it, you know, thirty-five minutes in front of the mirror, because this is just a flash front to create a general impression. Remember poppa is a bit fuzzy too and isn't looking as closely as he will in a few hours from then. And at least you will appear to him neat, dressed, alert and groomed so that when he encounters Miss Pippin at the office the shock won't be so great. In fact, if you carry out my advice, he will hardly notice her.

Who is Miss Pippin? Honey lamb, she is your deadliest rival. She is his secretary, stenographer, typist, salesgirl, file clerk, departmental assistant, or receptionist. She is the first woman he encounters after walking out of the house where he has just left you looking like an early morning wrap-around. You have been shuffling about the premises in a morning gown. You have been wearing slacks in heel-less pantofles, your hair stringy, your eyes puffy and your nightie dragging. The next girl who sees has been up an hour before you and dressed as carefully for the office as though she were getting ready to be received at court. See what I mean?

Heck, there doesn't have to be anything between them. She probably has many boy friends of her own and isn't setting her cap for anybody around the office, but friend hubby can't avoid the comparison of how she looks with every hair sweetly in place, face scrubbed and nicely organized, clothes clean and fresh, stockings seams straight, heels clicking nicely on the floor, and how you looked when he left the house.

Don't Think Much Of This

Now that I've been around this planet for a while, I don't think so much even of the frilly negligee thing so dear to the hearts of honeymoon couples and without which no touseau is complete, but which, when some honeymoon is over, is promptly put away as being something too good to be worn around the house, especially in the morning.

No, it's clothes a man likes to see in the morning and the neater, simpler and more business-like, the better he likes them and the lady inside them. I say that with a little practice a girl can learn to camouflage herself with real clothes in the morning for the hour or forty-five minutes she spends with hubby, and do it inside of the time quoted above. And what takes even less time is to get out of them after the breadwinner has departed, and get into something loose, sloppy and practical to do what ever needs be done about the house.

THAT, my dear, take it from me, is one way of keeping that nice new husband.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Today, although it is not Friday, certainly is fish day in the newspapers. Incidentally, whenever you see "today" in this column, that is not the day on which you read it. It is the day on which I WRITE it.

A couple of weeks ago, in one of my columns, appeared a statement that "The sun is shining, it is warm."

Two days later I received an airmail letter from a fellow in New Mexico. "What kind of a liar are you, anyway?" he asked. "You say it's a wonderful day. It is raining cats and dogs. It's a miserable day. So wonder you can't believe anything you read in the papers!"

Yes, indeed it is fish day, today. On page 1 of my local paper appears this heading:

"Thousands of Small Herring Found on Shore in Black Rock."

There is going to be an investigation, not by the Kefauver Committee but by the Connecticut Department of Fisheries and Game. They want to know whether the fish died from natural causes or from poisoning.

And then there is always the possibility that they committed suicide.

If you were a herring wouldn't it drive you to suicide if you realized the prices the housewives have to pay for you nowadays after you are put in a can and called a sardine?

The second fish story is about the ferry boat "Park City" which has carried passengers from Bridgeport, Conn., to Long Island for the past half century.

Now it is being refitted and will join the shrimp fleet in the Gulf of Mexico.

I may be wrong, but from the way the story is worded it implies that its new career will be a humiliation for the poor boat. I don't see why. I am not very tall, so quite often I have been called "little shrimp."

If I don't resent it, why should the boat?

Now for the third fish story of the day.

Three years ago a Brockton, Mass., shoe worker retired at the age of 68.

He bought himself a new car and drove around the city "whistling at girls and generally behaving like a Don Juan."

Complaint began to come in to the police and the fellow got to be called "The Wolf of Brockton."

At last the police caught up with him and he was arrested.

Now 71, he admitted to the judge that he was thoroughly ashamed of himself.

Being a widower, he said, he didn't know what to do with himself since he retired.

"I just like women, I miss them. And I haven't much of anything to do."

The judge ordered him to sell his car and to act his age.

And as His Honor left the bench he was heard to remark: "Poor fish."

LET'S LOOK AT THE FACTS

In the past few weeks Arsen F. Armond, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county commissioner has published advertisements which attempt to show that County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers has been inefficient in his job.

As citizens we are not so much concerned with partisan politics as we are in good government. Among the members of the committee signing this ad are Republicans and Democrats but we have one thing in common. We believe in fair play and we want good government.

We know Joe Travers as a man and as a county commissioner. We know he has done an honest job as a county commissioner, that he has worked at the job and has treated everyone fairly.

Back in November 1950 when the big snow hit, New Castle and Lawrence County were marooned. Groceries and medicines could not be delivered, workers could not get to their jobs, schools were closed. The job of snow removal was too big for any one agency of government to do and Joe Travers realized it quickly. Upon his own initiative he called the State Highway Department and asked permission to use some of the Liquid Fuel Tax money to aid New Castle, the boros and townships to remove the snow. The highway department said the rules did not permit it.

He then called Governor James H. Duff and insisted that some of this money be used in the emergency. Wisely, Governor Duff agreed and gave the Lawrence County commissioners permission to aid the various communities, the only county in Pennsylvania to give such aid.

Immediately, Joe Travers hired bulldozers, scrapers, high lifts, and men and went to work. For three days he hardly slept. He was out day and night supervising the work of the snow removal corps and because of his work and the co-operation of the other two commissioners Lawrence County set a record for digging out.

We know these facts are true for most of us worked on the snow removal job. For his work Joe Travers got not one cent extra. He believed it was his duty. There was no thought of time and a half or double time. He got his salary, nothing more. That's the kind of public service we admire. We believe it should be rewarded by re-election.

In the matter of the county pension Mr. Armond attempts by indirection to suggest that Joe Travers was responsible for the early mistakes in the plan.

That is a lie. The original pension plan was set up by a committee of county employees and the plan submitted to the county commissioners. Joe Travers is a minority commissioner and while he protested against some of the apparent inequities it was adopted.

When a "sleeper" in the contract was pointed out he immediately demanded that the clause giving employees their own and the county's contribution—when they left the service—be stricken out and it was.

We would like to raise one question. The salary of a county commissioner is $3300 per year. Mr. Armond is working on a job that pays him probably $1500 or $2000 more per year. Is it that he is so imbued with the ideal of public service that he is willing to serve at a financial sacrifice. Or is it that he intends to continue his present employment and be a part time county commissioner, if he were elected.

Joe Travers works at the job of being a county commissioner every day and many nights. He has done a good job. He deserves to be re-elected.

Outcome Of French Election On Sunday Appears Uncertain

PARIS, June 16.—(INS)—The three-week election campaign of candidates for a new French national assembly reached its climax today with political observers agreed that the results of tomorrow's balloting is unpredictable. Middle-road parties heavily wooed the usual non-voting "abstainers" in their fight against the extremes of left and right.

The campaign has been the most complicated in French history but seldom has the nation had such a peaceful one.

A total of 3,940 candidates are seeking the 628 seats to be filled in the new national assembly. The unpredictability of the outcome stems from the fact that the new electoral system approved just before the last assembly adjourned permits parties to fuse their lists.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Shell Animals

Shells picked up along the shore, a package of pipe cleaners, some "airplane" glue and oil paints provide all the fixings for a collection of fascinating shell animals. And what fun the family can have in figuring out whether one shell will make a good head or better feet.

A very realistic turkey, with spreading tail, is easily made from a couple of scallop shells. A smaller one is fastened with the glue to the underside of a good-sized one. The body and the head are of appropriately shaped shells while neck and legs are formed from pieces of pipe cleaner.

All kinds of other animals, realistic and fanciful, can be concocted. Giraffes, ostriches and horses are among the easier ones to make. A few pieces of seaweed may be fastened on for manes and tails.

After a good many different sizes and shapes of shells have been picked up, arranging and rearranging them will suggest ideas for animals, birds, people and all sorts of other things.

The children will enjoy having their shell animals marching along a shelf, used as table favors or placed as decorative knickknacks in the living room.

Nurses Learn 'A' Technique

Nursing functions in atomic warfare were outlined to 75 graduate nurses in the senior high school, June 13.

Sponsored by the Planning Committee of Lawrence County for Nursing in Civilian Defense and Atomic Warfare, the program was directed by Sister Lawrence Mary, director of the New Castle Hospital School of Nursing.

The institute was patterned upon those which are being held throughout the state as a part of the State Nurses' Association plan to acquaint all nurses with their responsibilities in war time.

Participating were those who are authorities in their field and have been active in civil defense. Plans for future action include a follow-up of this institute when nursing functions will be discussed in greater detail. One of the main objectives of this institute was to acquaint a group of representative nurses who in turn will assume responsibility for teaching in their own areas.

Miss Margaret Muth, director of nurses for Jameson Memorial Hospital presided and was introduced by Sister Lawrence Mary. Major Waldron Curley spoke on the problem created by the atomic bomb, and also nuclear physics of radiation. Sister Lawrence Mary discussed the nursing functions in atomic warfare and Dr. Howard A. Steiner, director of the radiology department of Sharon General Hospital spoke upon the medical aspects of atomic bombing, radiation sickness and radiation therapy. W. H. Ray, health physicist of the graduate school of Public Health, University of Pittsburgh spoke on radiation, detection measurement and contamination.

The average weight of the human brain is 48 ounces.

New Castle Lions Club will have its regular meeting, Tuesday noon, in The Castleton, when new officers for the coming year will be installed. They will take office, July 1. Former District Governor Fred Ande, of Oil City, will be in charge of the installation ceremonies. Awards of merit will also be presented to members who have earned them during the past year.

TIRES ON FARMS
AKRON, O.—(INS)—The mechanization of farms has progressed so rapidly in the past decade that many large farms now require more tires annually than truck fleets in industrial cities. According to the B. F. Goodrich farm tire sales department, practically 100 per cent of the 4,000,000 farm tractors roll on rubber tires. The use of rubber tires saves as much as 24 days' work and 675 gallons of fuel a year for each 150 acres worked, as compared to steel-wheel vehicles, the company said.

Sorrow Voiced In Preston Death

Genuine sorrow in the death of John R. Preston was expressed Thursday night when the directors of the Greater New Castle Association met in the association offices.

A committee was appointed by President James A. Rugh to prepare a resolution of regret which will be placed upon the minutes of the GNCA and a copy sent to the family of the late Mr. Preston.

Nearly $1,000,000 Fire Loss At Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, Pa., June 16—(INS)—A large dress manufacturing plant was in ruins today following a fire which caused nearly $1,000,000 damage.

Mr. McGiverty was excited, But his intentions were good

A week ago we quoted our friend Horatius Q. McGiverty (of the Spring Hill McGiverty's) when he mentioned Uncle Walt's frozen custard stand. Mr. McG had it in front of our truck equipment and repair garage on West Grant Street.

Mr. McG was a little excited or something. He made a little mistake. We all make 'em. That's why they put rubber mats under cuspidors.

Here's the low down on Uncle Walt's frozen custards. The stand is on Route 422 west of New Castle. And brother "you ain't tasted nuthin' yet" if you haven't tried them. Stop by when you're out driving.

Radio Operators May Participate In Air Force System

Civilian amateur "ham" radio operators who wish to participate in the military amateur radio system of the air force, commonly known as MARS, may apply to the director of the program for the First Air Force at Mitchell Air Force base.

Authority for civilian participation in the program has just been granted by U. S. Air Force headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Persons who are 21 years of age and who hold an FCC amateur license together with the necessary equipment to operate an amateur station, may apply for membership in MARS.

Future members only have to submit the prescribed Air Force MARS application form along with a loyalty statement and release clause.

Persons applying for membership within the continental air command should submit applications through the air force area headquarters in which they reside. This will normally assure assignment within the numbered air force areas of that command, but in special instances individual civilian members may be assigned and organized within commands other than the continental air command.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CREE

A fugitive from Alcoholics Anonymous negotiated a job in a china-ware emporium, and succeeded in smashing an ornate vase before he had been there two hours. "Too bad," said the foreman, "but we'll have to deduct twenty per cent from your wages every week until the vase is paid for." "What did it cost?" asked the worker. "Five hundred bucks," said the foreman. The worker consoled himself, "My wife'll be pleased anyhow. This will be the first steady job I've had in ten years."

Dire prophecy by a leading character in Aubrey Menen's "The Backward Bride." Steadily and remorselessly, women are capturing literature, painting, drama, the signposts of civilization. In America their word is law on a thousand topics. Nay, more than law. Some Americans break the law, but what American obeys his wife? Gentlemen, today America; tomorrow the world. It is the will of God that we yield to women.

Senate Committee Would Permit Increases In Rent

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS)—The Senate Banking Committee pushed ahead on price-wage-production controls legislation today after completing a rent control measure permitting "cost-of-living" increases to landlords.

Chairman Maybank (D) S. C., said he hopes to complete work on the new economic law "by Wednesday or Thursday of next week."

However, Sen. Robertson (D) Va., and some other committee members persisted in their predictions that the effort to draft a new law will end in a stalemate and the present law will be extended for six or nine months.

The rent measure would permit increases of up to 20 per cent on nearly all of the seven million housing units now under federal ceilings.

The 20 per cent figure was agreed to by a 9 to 4 vote after defeat of a GOP-backed proposal for boosts of up to 37 per cent.

Sens. Bricker (R) Ohio, and Capehart (R) Ind., announced, however, that they will fight for the 37 per cent provision on the Senate floor.

Stiffer Sentences For Narcotics Law Violators Proposed

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS)—The house ways and means committee on Friday approved a measure providing stiffer jail sentences ranging up to 20 years for narcotics law violators.

The legislation provides mandatory minimum sentences of two years for first offenders, five years for second offenders and 10 years for third offenders.

Maximum imprisonment would be five years for first offenders, 10 years for second, and 20 years for subsequent violations.

The bill also would prohibit a judge from suspending sentence or granting probation to a second or subsequent offender.

At hearings prior to its action, the committee heard narcotics commissioner Harry J. Anslinger testify that the measure would go a long way toward drying up the dope traffic.

The committee pointed out that areas where severe sentences are provided for dope violations are virtually free from drug traffic. It listed among these Minneapolis, Memphis and Louisville.

In its report, the committee noted "an alarming increase in drug addictions among younger people," and a marked increase in drug traffic at military camps.

Do You Know the Canons of Judicial Ethics? NEITHER DOES THE JUDGE! WHAT ARE JUDICIAL ETHICS?

Principles adopted by the American Bar Association, the Pennsylvania Bar Association and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to govern the personal practice of Judges in the administration of their office. Breaches of these ethical principles are morally indefensible.

There Is No Fundamental Difference Between What Is Improper and What Is Illegal

Here Are Several Canons of Ethics:

28. Partisan Politics

"While entitled to entertain his personal views of political questions, and while not required to surrender his rights or opinions as a citizen, it is inevitable that suspicion of being warped by political bias will attach to a judge who becomes the active promoter of the interests of one political party as against another. He should avoid making political speeches, making (except for his own campaign) or soliciting payment of assessments or contributions to party funds, the public endorsement of candidates for political office and participation in party conventions.

He should neither accept nor retain a place on any party committee nor act as party leader, nor engage generally in partisan activities."

34. A Summary of Judicial Obligation

"In every particular his conduct should be above reproach. He should be conscientious, studious, thorough, courteous, patient, punctual, just, impartial, fearless of public clamor, regardless of public praise, and indifferent to private political or partisan influences; he should administer justice according to law, and deal with his appointments as a public trust; he should not allow other affairs or his private interests to interfere with the prompt and proper performance of his judicial duties, nor should he administer the office for the purpose of advancing his personal ambitions or increasing his popularity."

When Mr. Lamoree Entered the fight for the chairmanship of the Republican Party in 1950, was he unconscious of these canons, or was he above the law where his own personal fortunes were concerned?

When Mr. Lamoree Made A Radio Address on behalf of a Governor candidate over Station WKST, 7:15 to 7:30 P. M., April 25, 1950, was he unconscious of these canons, or was he too big in his own sight to abide by them?

When On Sunday Mother's Day, May 13, 1951 he permitted himself to be introduced as the guest of honor at a banquet for a man known to the Judge as being out on bail and awaiting sentence by the Lawrence County Court for a liquor violation, was he unconscious of the loss of the court's prestige, or was he more concerned with advancing his own political prestige?

Was He Still Unconscious when he appeared with this same man last Sunday, June 10, as a speaker after the earlier impropriety had been publicly pointed out to him? (See New Castle News, Wed., 13 June, 1951, p. 16)

How Well Has This Man (using his own words) "endeavored at all times to live up to the canons of ethics of his profession"?

Reports Indicate Hungary Has Army Of About 100,000

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS)—Reports reaching Washington from inside Hungary indicate today that the iron-curtain satellite has an army of about 100,000 men in violation of a peace-treaty limitation of 65,000.

This issue is expected to be an important one if the big four foreign ministers meet on problems contributing to world tension this summer.

It is likewise expected to encourage the western powers to lift the peace treaty limitations imposed on Italy, permitting only a limited defense force and barring bombers and armored equipment.

Hungary is said to have one mechanized and two infantry divisions fully equipped and trained. One other armored and two more infantry divisions are said to exist in skeleton form.

Educational Work Planned

The committee is composed of the following: Edward Bartley, Clare B. Book, Earle M. Cass, W. D. Cobau, Grace Dodson, W. Earl Leslie, L. Ruth Lewis, G. Crawford Lyons, William A. Margraf, P. M. McGaffie, John A. McGrath, Dr. George J. Jones, Roy P. Conway, Martin Horning, Genevieve Riddle, W. S. Smit, Alice Sterling, Dr. T. R. Uber, Dorothy Young, R. D. Cunningham.

At the conclusion of Dr. Post's talk, the hostesses, assisted by Shirley Shields, served dainty refreshments. Special guests were the guest speaker, Dr. Post, and Miss Mae Matthews.

Next meeting of the Mahoning Valley Civic club will be the annual picnic held at Cascade Park on July 12 at 6:30 o'clock.

CHICAGO, June 16.—(INS)—A nationwide strike against United Air Lines was threatened today by members of the Airlines Pilots' association who have established token picket lines at major UAL terminals.

A spokesman for the pilots said in Chicago that the pickets are focusing attention on pay and working grievances against UAL while negotiations are continuing. He added that should final bargaining break down the pilots will walk out in a "matter of minutes."

Token pickets ringed terminals at Los Angeles, Seattle, San Francisco, Denver, Salt Lake City, Chicago, New York and Newark, N. J. The Portland, Ore., UAL office will be picketed later.

UAL company executives and union officials prepared to meet again in the Chicago headquarters of the airline in another attempt to reach a settlement and avoid a strike which the APA now legally can call at anytime.

HOSPITAL BEDS ARE NO PLACE TO SPEND A SUMMER VACATION

Hospitals are grand institutions—when you need them—but they're hardly the spot to recommend for your summer vacation.

This is the vacation season—the time when Nature beckons with a flirtatious eye to get outdoors—to the seaside—the mountains—or the deep woods.

Take time to be safe—when you drive out on your vacation—remember there's always another day to get there—respect the rules of the road.

Just now the General Assembly is considering some new safety laws—and right thinking citizens will approve the effort to make the highways safer.

But in the final analysis—safety is a personal matter—something that you can do for yourself most of the time. Don't turn a joyous time into a time of tragedy.

Hospital beds are no place to spend a summer vacation.

FACTS ABOUT PUBLIC HOUSING

The low-rent public housing program enables communities to provide adequate housing for low income families who otherwise would have to live in substandard housing. It is a local program, operated with Federal financial assistance.

The program is not new. It was begun by the United States Housing Act of 1937 which authorized Federal aid to communities to house—families * * * in the lowest income group * * * who cannot afford to pay enough to cause private enterprise * * * to build an adequate supply of decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings for their use.

Under the 1937 act, a total of 191,700 simple but adequate homes have been provided in 268 localities renting at rates within the means of low-income families. The public housing portion of the Housing Act of 1949 amends the 1937 act to authorize financial assistance for the construction and operation of 810,000 additional low-rent dwellings in a 6-year program.

Low rent housing can be developed in any State where the State Legislature has authorized the establishment of local housing authorities for this purpose. Forty-two States (including Pennsylvania) as well as the District of Columbia have such laws in effect. Under the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania housing legislation, the Lawrence County Authority was created.

When a local housing authority finds there is a need in its locality for low-rent housing for low-income families that is not being met by private housing, it may make an application to the Public Housing Administration for a "program reservation." This application must be accompanied by pertinent data proving the existence and extent of the need for public housing. The program reservation merely sets aside a certain number of units for the community from the quota available for allocation at the time.

Then the authority may get a small preliminary loan to pay for planning its project. The city council must approve the local authority's application for this loan.

When the project is planned and approved, PHA will contact with the authority for the necessary loans and agree to pay the annual contributions required to keep rents low. This contract for assistance will be conditioned, of course, on the authority's agreement to house only low-income families, to set a rental gap between public housing and private housing, to stay within the cost limits and otherwise abide by the purposes and requirements of the program. With these contracts and agreements made, the local authority can go ahead with building the project and putting it into operation.

These local authorities construct their low-rent projects under contract with private builders, own the projects, and operate them with their own management staffs.

The Federal function is restricted to making capital loans, paying the annual contributions and reviewing local actions for conformity with law. These Federal responsibilities are handled by the Public Housing Administration, a constituent of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The local housing authority must determine the need in its locality for low-rent public housing. After it has demonstrated that there is a need for low-rent housing not being met by private enterprise, the PHA will make a small preliminary loan to cover the cost of planning a proposed project. The local governing body must approve the application for this loan.

The authority then selects a site, has it appraised, selects architects and engineers to prepare plans, and makes estimates of the cost of building and operating the project. It also enters into a cooperation agreement with its local government providing for tax exemption for the project, payments in lieu of taxes and, where required, the elimination of substandard dwellings in the locality.

Capital costs of the project during the first development period will be covered by temporary loans. These loans are generally obtained through sale of the local authority's temporary loan notes to private investors. Because PHA obligates itself to lend enough to cover the principal and interest on these notes when they mature, if necessary, the notes have excellent security and are now being sold at interest rates averaging substantially less than 1 percent per year. All temporary loan notes are retired as soon as the project is permanently financed.

When the project is far enough along so that its cost can be figured accurately, the local authority proceeds to permanent financing by sale of long-term serial bonds. These are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to pay annual contributions. It is expected that substantially all of the permanent bonds can be sold to private investors at favorable interest rates. Under present market conditions, interest rates of 1½ to 1¾ percent should be obtained for this long-term financing.

The maturities of the bonds are so arranged that the debt service will be the same amount each year. In order to pay off the cost of the project as quickly as possible—and thus end the Federal contributions—this level debt service is arranged so as to substantially equal the maximum contributions available as security for the bonds.

Thus, under present conditions, the debt service per year would be set at just under 4½ percent of the capital cost. If the bonds were sold at interest rates averaging 1 7/8 percent, the project cost could be amortized in 29 years. If interest rates were lower, the cost could be amortized even more rapidly.

When the amortization is completed, the local authority can continue to operate the project at low rents without further Federal assistance.

Local authorities will begin taking applications for admission to the project before the project is completed. The applications will be carefully reviewed to determine the eligibility of the applicants and to administer the preferences prescribed by law.

To be eligible for admission, a family must be low income, with an income not in excess of the maximum set locally. Except for veterans, the family must come from slum housing, or be displaced by a slum-clearance project or another public-housing project, or actually be without housing through no fault of its own. Among eligible families, preference for initial occupancy is given first to families displaced from cleared areas, and second, to other low-income families, with veterans of World War I and II given first preference in each of these two groups.

There are several provisions in the law to insure that only low-income families who cannot afford adequate privately owned housing are allowed to occupy low-rent housing. The principal ones are—

1. The top rent for admission must be at least 20 percent below the rents at which private enterprise is providing a substantial supply of available standard housing, either new or old.
2. The net income of families at admission (less a $100 exemption for each minor member) cannot exceed five times the annual rent to be charged, including utilities.
3. Local authorities must set maximum income limits, both for admission to the project and for continued residence in it. These limits are subject to PHA approval.
4. The authority must make a written report to PHA showing that incomes of families admitted are within the limit.
5. The authority must reexamine the incomes of all tenant families periodically to adjust rents if necessary and to evict those families whose incomes have risen above the limit for continued occupancy.

The maximum income limits for admission are set by the authority after a careful study of local needs. Factors considered include the incomes of families forced to live in slum housing, the lowest incomes earned by regularly employed workers and income levels permitted by relief agencies for their clients. Maximum income limits for continued occupancy are generally set 20 to 25 percent above the admission limits to allow some increase in family income without necessitating eviction.

In urban areas, the law requires that substantially the same number of slum dwellings be eliminated as the number of public-housing units built in the locality. This may be done by demolishing, closing, or rehabilitating existing substandard housing within 5 years after the public-housing project is completed. The slum elimination may be deferred in places where there is an acute shortage of adequate housing for low-income families and is not required if a public-housing project is built on a slum site cleared since the Housing Act of 1949 was enacted or if it is located in a rural nonfarm area.

DEFENSE OF THE TRUTH

PARTIAL STATEMENT BEFORE THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NEW CASTLE BY STATE SENATOR SAMUEL GUNNETT NEFF, Chairman of the Lawrence County Industrial Union Council Housing Committee.

I deem it a privilege to be permitted to speak here before you this morning. I am deeply appreciative of your courtesy in extending to one who resides outside of the city of New Castle the opportunity to make an affirmative statement on the very important matter of PUBLIC LOW RENT HOUSING in the City of New Castle.

My affirmative interest in this matter stems from a sincere conviction, a state of mind that has not been shaken or disturbed in the past week by the barrage of unfair and false propaganda that a quasi committee of home owners, or in reality, a group of selfish maligners of the truth, men lacking in conscience, have paid to have spread upon the pages of the local paper for the past week.

However, before I dispel and reject in fact the false and disreputable presentations of this group, I wish to point out that this barrage of outrageous charges and misrepresentations are the same as laid down against the provisions of federal aid during the debate in Washington and has again been dusted off and repackaged by public housings' opponents.

It is now being broadcast in local communities to defeat their housing programs. The charges and misrepresentations have been printed in a "kit" put out by the anti-public housing Washington lobby, but they are the same as they have always been: They say public housing "Increases Local Taxes"; "Does not house low-income families"; "Does not eliminate slums"; "Is socialism," and so on.

These wild charges are irresponsible and false—as any one who has studied the 13 years experience with public housing knows—as Congress knew when it ignored them.

More than 600 American communities have begun the planning of low-rent housing programs under the terms of the National Housing Act of 1949.

Low-rent public housing has operated successfully and with distinction for 13 years in hundreds of American communities. It has saved tax-payers thousands of dollars for police, fire, health, and crime protection.

These experiences with public housing have not, however, changed the minds of the traditional opponents and enemies of public housing. They opposed it 13 years ago; they oppose it today.

At the same time they clamor for every possible government housing aid that would increase their own profits.

The local opponents have made point of the fact as they presented them that low-cost housing does not eliminate slums. That is false!

The United States' Housing Act of 1937 was the first Federal Housing Statute to recognize the necessary inter-dependence of slum clearance and rent housing. The housing Act of 1949 continues the requirement (Title Section 301, 8, (b) (ii)) that low-income families housed in projects developed under the Act shall have lived in slums.

There is only one exception permitted under the Law—A 5-year preference to low-income Veteran's with urgent housing need. No slum clearance program can be accomplished under the law unless it provides for the re-housing of families displaced from slum sites. This same group of manipulators have attempted to adversely influence the local citizenry in this matter with the unfounded claim that such a project would mean increased taxation, once again I give the lie a false statement.

Cities have generally found that their tax receipts have been increased as the result of the development of Low-rent housing and that they receive more in payments in lieu of taxes than the taxes previously assessed (and after not collected) on the sites so developed.

In Gary, Indiana, the Mayor said: "Due to the existence of public housing, the revenues of our city have been increased without the addition of municipal services." Some examples: St. Louis reported payments in lieu of taxes 251% more than the taxes formerly assessed on the sites of its projects. The Memphis tax treasury profited by receiving over 35% more than formerly; San Francisco's tax receipts from low-rent housing development sites rose from $30,000 to $146,000; Hartford, Connecticut's in lieu of tax receipts increased from $18,000 to $112,500; Houston, Texas, got 238% more than formerly.

The paying of less than full taxes by low-rent housing does not mean any out-of-pocket expenditure to the local tax-payer. The housing projects make payments in lieu of taxes up to 10 percent of their shelter rents, which means that they contribute their share towards the costs of municipal services such as streets, schools, and so on provided by the local community to the occupants of the projects. This payment is usually more than the small amount of taxes collected from landlords of slum dwellings.

Another half truth I noted in the arguments of the opponents to the issue was the low-cost housing is only a name inasmuch as many of the families residing in existing projects have yearly incomes amounting to as much as $10,000.

The answer to that statement is—The housing Act of 1949 provides that public housing admits families only in the lowest income group who cannot afford to pay for decent private housing. Families admitted in 1948 had an average weekly income of $30.46. The average income of all families living in low-rent housing in 1949 was only $38.57.

These include some families admitted during the war whose incomes have risen above the limits permitted in the projects, who are ineligible to remain and are steadily moving out.

There are two main reasons for the presence of "over-income" families in the existing low-rent projects: (1) Many projects were used during the war to house war-workers, regardless of income; (2) Many families admitted with low incomes experienced increases in income during the war years and afterward as a result of the generally rising levels of money wages, in both cases, some of the families could not be removed because in the period of acute housing shortage there was no place for them to go. This condition was recognized by congress, which enacted laws virtually prohibiting removal of the over income families. (It should be noted that such families are not subsidized in any way, but pay full economic rents for their accommodations.)

The assertion on the part of the opponents that private enterprise had adequately provided for the housing needs of the community is as erroneous as the previously enumerated falsifications.

The mere existence of many dilapidated structures is evidence that private enterprise is unable to provide an adequate supply of decent low-cost housing for low-income American families.

In a period of high housing cost such as the present, it becomes particularly evident that low income families are barred from the housing market because they cannot afford to pay the prices of the housing being produced by private enterprise. The costs of new housing show that it is very largely available only for the upper income groups. What is built in the medium price and rent brackets is often housing of minimum standards, unsuited for family living. Some down-to-earth statements of those who have studied the facts objectively and accurately summarize this situation. Albert F. Hillix, President of the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City, said in an address to a real estate board: "... we urgently need ... additional public housing to enable communities to meet the crying need of low income and minority groups, particularly veterans, who are the worse sufferers in this housing shortage and who have no other prospect of relief, who cannot be helped by private enterprise even under the most favorable conditions we can foresee ..."

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio said during the debate on the housing bill: "... the people who occupy public housing cannot possibly buy or rent houses built by public enterprise or rent new apartments built by private enterprise."

Public housing is not in competition with decent private housing.

Families eligible for public housing are in the lowest income group, well below those for whom private enterprise provides decent dwellings. Where does private enterprise provide decent three to seven room homes for a total cost of $15 to $35.00 per month, including all utilities? Only the owner of slum properties not fit for habitation might be described as in competition with the low-rents of public housing.

Finally, in the vein of others before them who also have sought to block progress and humane legislation, this reprehensible group of advertisers have busted off an old chestnut and for the lack of an honest argument, labeled public housing as (Socialistic). This tag of "Socialism" which opponents of public housing have tried to hang on it was rejected by the majority of the Congress which approved the Housing Act of 1949. It is one of the scare words which have been used many times in American history in the attempt to prevent the passage or carrying out of progressive legislative measures such as public education, social security and workmen's Compensation. Scare words usually reflect a lack of sound reasons by those who use them.

The public housing program is a sound investment by public and private enterprise working together for the general welfare and is in keeping with the spirit and tradition of community responsibility in America. Forty-three state legislatures (South Dakota is the latest) have enacted public housing legislation.

Fortune magazine says: "From a series of investigations ... We have concluded that the failure by 'Capitalism' to satisfy this elemental want (of a house) will do more to undermine free institutions than ten thousand union square orators."

In summary, I say to you Mr. Mayor and Members of Council, that low-rent housing is needed in the city of New Castle! It is needed to provide for the minimum shelter requirements for industrial workers, it is needed to give to hundreds of young Americans the opportunity to live in surroundings that is their rightful heritage not to be denied by any selfish Godless group of lobbyists, and finally it is needed if this city of which you have been privileged to serve is to keep step as a community with the rest of America in this era of social progress.

PLACE MATS

If you are planning to make table mats or cloths out of colored linens, be sure to hem them by hand. They look much handsomer this way than if they are machine-hemmed. Napkins do not have to be matching color. Dark green napkins are attractive with a chartreuse cloth and white napkins go well with, cherry-red mats.

Hawthorne Enters Air Force School

SHEPPARD AIR FORCE BASE, Tex.—Pfc. Robert E. Hawthorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hawthorne, R.D. 5, New Castle, recently entered the airplane and engine mechanic's school at the Sheppard Air Force Base.

He is a graduate of Eastbrook high school.

THE BIG GRAB

For the last month in the newspaper, we have shown the voting public how Mr. Travers, the present Democratic incumbent, throughout his present term never forgot one thing—TRYING TO GET SOMETHING FOR NOTHING FOR HIMSELF, IN THE FORM OF A PENSION, REGARDLESS OF HOW MUCH IT COST THE TAXPAYERS OR HOW MUCH PUBLIC FUNDS HE WASTED.

In December, 1947, just after Mr. Travers had been reelected by a narrow margin, he decided that the taxpayers ought to reward him at the end of this term for his twelve years of wasting their funds.

In December, 1947, Mr. Travers, with no interest for anyone but himself, passed Pension Plan No. 1. Mr. Travers' Pension Plan No. 1 provided—that for the payment of $396.00 at the rate of $99.00 for the next four years, that on January 1, 1952, the county would reward Mr. Travers by giving him approximately $4,200.00 of the taxpayers money, in addition to his salary.

Mr. Travers had an easy conscience; it did not bother him how much money of the taxpayers he wasted just so he could get a little for himself. This repealed pension plan provided that the county would give the Pittsburgh Insurance Agency over $107,000.00 of the county's money by the end of 1951, and out of the $107,000.00 he would get $4,200.00 if he quit or was defeated.

Travers big grab was so patently illegal and reeked from his greed that the New Castle News, in an article titled "County Retirement System Now Center of Much Discussion," exposed the same and the newly elected County Commissioners abandoned Travers' Grab. The present majority commissioners should be complimented for saving over $85,000.00 of the $107,000.00 that Mr. Travers planned to throw away. Fortunately the taxpayers lost only $20,000.00, but this was no credit to Mr. Travers—he was willing to throw away $107,000.00 to get almost $4,200.00 of your money.

THE TAXPAYERS POCKETBOOKS CANNOT STAND MANY MORE PLANS FOR MR. TRAVERS' BENEFIT WHICH MR. TRAVERS WILL INTRODUCE—VOTE FOR AND THEN APPROPRIATE MONEY FOR. In 1950 when the present Pension Plan was drawn up for the protection of the county employees, Mr. Travers was the only Commissioner who had the gall to join the present plan which was voluntary on the part of elected officials. He now hopes to take this fund for $18,000.00—for a pension for himself.

I believe in adequate and reasonable pensions for County employees but am against any pension for elected officials and if elected I will not join the Lawrence County Pension Fund.

ARE THE PUBLIC HOUSERS AFRAID OF A REFERENDUM?

The democratic way to settle the Public Housing question in New Castle is to allow the voters to decide by ballot.

Advocates of Public Housing are using pressure groups trying to force City Council to act on a program to commit you and your children to a large tax burden every year for the next 40 years.

Why is it that these groups do not want you to decide this question? The reason must be that in thirty-one of the thirty-six communities where the voters have been given the opportunity to express their opinion PUBLIC HOUSING HAS BEEN DEFEATED.

White Sox Drop Two To Athletics, Yanks Win

Pale Hose Lead By Three Games

Dodgers Defeat Chicago Cubs 2-1

By HOWARD SIGMAND (L. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 16.—Just when everything looked real good for the Chicago White Sox, the Windy City wonders had to come up with a bad case of "athletics" feel."

If things begin turning for the worse for the Palehose from here on in, they can look back on the night of the "Great Battle" of the Shibe Park on June 15 and recall how they got the double boot by the lowly Philadelphia Athletics.

In a setting packing as much drama as a Hollywood epic and as many if not more punches than some IBC promotions, the A's tripped the Sox 4 to 3 in 11 innings and 12 to 5 in a two-night double-header and reduced the White Sox American league lead to three games.

Yanks Benefit
The New York Yankees benefited by it all. Viv Raschi raised the bombers by blanking the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 0, on three hits for his tenth victory of the year.

Don Johnson also tossed a three-hitter as the Washington Senators toppled the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 2.

The St. Louis-Boston game was rained out.

Brooklyn stayed six games ahead in the National League as the Dodgers whipped the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 1 with Don Newcombe gaining his seventh win.

Pirates Lose
Wes Westrum walloped two homers, one a grand slammer, to pace the second place New York Giants to an 11 to 6 win over the Pirates.

Cincinnati topped Boston, 6 to 1, on Willie Rife's seven-hitter and the St. Louis Cardinals slugged the Philadelphia Phillies, 10 to 2.

Nichols And 'Ruffy' Draw In Mat Bout

Two thousand, one hundred and forty wrestling addicts paid several thousand dollars to witness a spectacular mat endeavor at Flaherty field last night. It was the best attended mat show yet held here.

In the main setto, Jackie Nichols, Richmond, Me., and Ruffy Silverstein, Chicago, heavyweights, staged a highly pleasing 60 minutes draw.

While Nichols was the more agile and clever, Silverstein displayed the most brawn and stamina. It was nip and tuck all of the way, entirely devoid of burlesque, and both men and women, who saw the main bout, enjoyed the classy exhibition.

In the semi-final popular Bobby Ford, Youngstown, defeated John LaRance, Montreal, in 12:07, with a rolling split leg lock. The fans were "with" the youthful Ford throughout and cheered his victory.

Nell Stewart was taken ill before the bout and had to watch Lois Johnston, 154, substitute with Mae Weston, 145, against Sheba Zenna, 145 and Cora Combs, 138, in a Tag match, which was won by Sheba and Cora who took falls, in 10 and 16 minutes, respectively.

Midgets Coming
While the girls match was designed to be the feature of the Evening's Event, the fact remains that the Nichols vs. Silverstein match, proved the most enjoyable. They are regarded as two of the best wrestlers now gambling before the public.

Wayne Griffin, Chicago TV announcer, made a hit with the crowd and like all of the wrestlers, was kept busy penning his autobiography.

Some inconvenience was experienced by ringside spectators because of a mix-up in seating arrangements.

It was announced the Midgets will wrestle here July 17.

Following the performance there was a traffic-tie up outside the field.

The show netted the New Castle Indians ball team a tidy sum, as rental.

The Jefferson A. C., with Tommy Leach, as matchmaker, promoted the spectacle. Mickie Solomon and L. W. Kling (Pittsburgh) refereed. The judges were Frank Fazzone and John DeMonaco. Charles Walther introduced Wayne Griffin and the time as the bouts progressed.

Professor Roy Shire who was to have wrestled Nichols, was operated on in a Columbus, O. hospital yesterday, according to Griffin's announcement.

Dodgers Get Andy Pafko From Cubs In Big Trade

NEW YORK, June 16.—(INS)—Baseball's trade mart, which for a brief moment did more business than a price-warring department store, quieted down today and all the "customers" were convinced they had gotten bargains.

In the biggest of them all, the Brooklyn Dodgers figured they cinched the National League flag when they acquired Andy Pafko from the Chicago Cubs in an eight-player deal.

The hard-hitting Bruin center-fielder, who also can play third base, was one of four Cubs the Dodgers acquired for a hefty quarter composed of outfielder Gene Hermanski, catcher Bruce Edwards, infielder Eddie Miksis and left-handed pitcher Joe Hatten.

In addition to Pafko, the Cubs came across with veteran Lefty Johnny Schmitz, a Dodger nemesis from way back, second baseman Wayne Terwilliger and catcher Al Walker. The players switch uniforms and play against their former teammates today.

The New York Yankees, thwarted in their efforts to land Ned Garver from the Browns, came up with left-hander Bob Kuzava of the Washington Senators. The world champions sent three right-handed pitchers to the Nats in the deal—Fred Sanford, Tom Ferriek and Bob Porterfield.

In a last minute deal the Yankees also obtained pitcher Stubby Overmire from the Browns for left-hander Tommy Byrne and an undisclosed amount of cash.

(Special To The News)
ERIE, June 16.—New Castle suffered its ninth loss to the Erie Sailors last night as Edgar Moeller handcuffed the Indians, 6-2, on seven hits.

A skimpy crowd of 362, held down because of an hour long rain right up to game time, witnessed the Ainsworth Field attraction.

Moeller, a right hander has beaten New Castle on three occasions this year.

Joe Louis Kayos Savold In Sixth, Will Battle Charles In September

—Acme Telephoto

COME BACK IN SIX ROUNDS—Thoroughly battered Lee Savold (left) recovers in his dressing room at Madison Square Garden after being knocked out by Joe Louis in 2:29 of the sixth round of a scheduled 15 rounder. At the same time, in a dressing room not far off, Joe Louis (right) grins happily over his victory. Joe showed some of the old Brown Bomber style and pummeled Savold constantly with left jabs and hooks—at the same time receiving remarkably little punishment as pictures here show.

By LAWTON CARVER (L. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 16.—Joe Louis, 37, stands today within one fight of proving that the has-beens do come back after all, but that one fight is with a man he probably cannot beat.

His six-round knockout over Lee Savold at Madison Square Garden last night clinched for the former heavyweight champion a September match with Ezzard Charles, who got where he is today by beating Louis last September.

A crowd of 18,000 which piled up a gate of $100,000 watched the Madison Square battle.

Count Turf In Belmont Today

Fast Field Seeks
Prize Of $83,000

By PAT ROBINSON
(N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, June 16.—(IN)—Nine rugged colts, including favored Kentucky Derby King Count Turf, and a dainty little filly named How, will start today in the 83rd running of the $100,000 Belmont stakes at Belmont park. Post time is 4:30 D.S.T.

This probably will be the most wide open Belmont since the inaugural in 1867 and surely will be the richest. The race will gross $119,100 of which the winner will get $83,000. The previous high was the $78,900 which Phalanx won in 1947.

The colts all will carry level stake weight—126 pounds—while Herman Delman's sensational filly, How, unquestionably the best of her sex and age in the country, gets in with 121.

Jack Amiel's Count Turf, winner of the Kentucky Derby, will be the favorite. But every horse in the field is sure to get support and none is considered a rank outsider. The reason is that the 10 leading stakes for three year olds this season have been won by 10 different horses and there may be a surprise winner today.

George D. Widener's Battleground, with peerless Eddie Arcaro up, will be the second choice. It is no secret that although Battleground was last year's two year old king, Eddie would have preferred the filly to ride in this one.

Friday, June 22, night softball will be introduced here, when at Bessemer, the nationally famous Cleveland Schrader girls, starring New Castle's Dora Naples will appear against a colored girl's team from Youngstown.

In the second game the Teamsters will play Moe Becker's Pittsburgh Merchants, formerly the Pittsburgh Ralphs.

S.S.B.T. Subdues Welding Team In City League Play

Bobby Locke

Leading Open

Jimmy Demaret

Is Man To Beat

By CHARLES EYNSTEIN
(U. S. Sports Writer)

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 16.—Bobby Locke, the intrepid African, strode into today's national open finale odds-on to become the only man besides Bobby Jones ever to double-slam the British and American golf championships.

If he did it—and his score indicated he would—Locke would be the first non-American to co-hold the two great open titles simultaneously. If he did it—and the other guys' scores indicated he could—the South African would be the first non-American to win the U. S. open prize in 31 years.

Watch Demaret
True, Locke, with a 36-hole score of 73-71—144 for his first two rounds at Oakland Hills, led Dave Douglas' 75-70—145 by only a stroke, and Bo Winner's 75-71—146 by only two.

Five other fellows had 147's, and yet, this was the gimmick: If you studied that scoreboard on the basis of past performances, consistencies, and histories, you realized stunningly that the closest man who figured to finish strongly was one who had a 148—Jimmy Demaret.

Demaret was one of seven 148's. At 149 were four more big threats—defending champ Ben Hogan, 1946 winner Lloyd Mangrum, 1949 winner Cary Middlecoff and Sam Snead, the old soldier of the links who just faded away with an eight-over-par 78.

Master sergeant H. O. Falls of the New Castle army and air force recruiting station today announced the enlistment into the air force of Charles J. Joseph, 1511 Hamilton street; Lowell A. Diehl, R. D. 8, box 21, and Samuel A. Cioffi, all of New Castle.

All have departed for Sampson air force base, Sampson, N. Y., for their basic training.

Ambridge Names New Basketball Coach

Wilmer "Sparky" Adams is the new head basketball coach at Ambridge high school.

Adams was voted a three-year contract at a recent meeting of the Ambridge board of education at salary terms not disclosed.

He has been in the Ambridge school system for five years and is a graduate of Duquesne university, where he played varsity basketball in '38, '39 and '40. In 1941-42 he became head coach at St. Veronica where he coached for five successful years.

He was named Ambridge high basketball coach four years ago.

The only head basketball position in section III yet to be filled is the one at Ellwood, where Ted Wallace resigned a short time ago.

How To Relax Books At Library

A request for a book on "How to Relax" brings to light the fact that books on relaxation of nervous tension are in frequent demand in the Public Library.

A popular book in this field is "You Must Relax" by Jacobson, who not only gives the command but tells how to execute it. Release from Nervous Tension by Dr. David Pink is a practical and readable book spiced with humor.

A much older book but still valuable is William Sadler's Physiology of Faith and Fear. Other books in this field which have been proved helpful are: "On Being a Real Person" by Harry Emerson Fosdick; "Take It Easy" by Walter Pitkin; "Two Lifetimes in One; How Never To Be Tired" by Marie B. Ray.

Many Delays In Building Bridge

Many delays have been encountered in building the Grove street bridge, and indications point to the fact that the structure may not be finished until fall.

Conn Welding company, which has the sub-contract on the steel work, has had difficulty in getting extra workmen to do the welding work, and are now faced with a scarcity of channel iron for putting up the side railings.

These railings will be of steel with a four-inch channel iron, forming the top and bottom railings, interspersed with upright bars.

NOISY PIPES
If your water pipes are noisy and the noise is accompanied by vibration, have them checked. These symptoms mean that connections are becoming loose, and this can cause leaks and other damage in time.

Electric cabs were introduced in New York in 1897.

Asks Division Of Properties

Partner Claims Share Denied

Nick Morrone has filed an equity suit against his former partner Emanuel Morrone and asks a division of joint holdings of the partnership.

In the equity suit he sets out that on September 1, 1931, the two men formed a partnership for the purpose of buying, selling and repairing wrecked automobiles. Each put in $600.

On September 5, 1948, Nick Morrone claims he withdrew from the partnership and asked a division of the joint holdings. This he claims has been denied. An appraisal of the properties at the time showed personal property in the value of $19,277, it is claimed. In addition there is real estate.

He asks an accounting, asks that a receiver be appointed and that the defendant be restrained from disposing of any of the holdings until an accounting is made and he is given his share.

Lack Of Romance Puzzles Vicar

LONDON.—(INS)—Canon Thomas Stevens, vicar of Saint Paul's Church, is puzzled about the lack of romance in his parish. "An extraordinary thing in parish history is the cessation of marriage," Canon Stevens wrote in the current issue of his parish magazine. "There have been no weddings at St. Paul's for nine months. I cannot find a suitable explanation. There are about 4,000 people in the parish, mostly middle-aged, and we have had difficulty in organizing a youth club. But still, I am most concerned for our poor old vergers. Without any wedding they are not getting any tips. We used to have about 20 a year."

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—Ever consider the life of an actor; a man who works for a few weeks on a picture then loaf until the mood strikes him again?

Gary Cooper's answer to this is, "bah!"

"Hardly a day goes by that someone doesn't bring that one up," Cooper said. "The idea persists that an actor puts in a few lazy weeks of work, then heads for the nearest resort to rest up until he decides that work will relieve the boredom again."

"Such is definitely not the case,"

Mental Strain
The lanky actor's contention is that an actor has considerably more mental strain than the average bank vice president.

"For example," Gary said, "today I am finishing up the studio shots on 'Distant Drums,' a task not lightly tossed off. I have to be ready for makeup—this would mean being at the veepee's desk—by 7:30 in the morning."

"There is a small matter of learning lines. Then, too, a few weeks ago, we were tramping through Florida jungles and the fact that it is hot out does not mean that I can peel off my heavy buckskin costume."

"But what about after 'Distant Drums'?" Can I rest? Of course, but there remains the slight problem of what I am going to do to earn a Yankee dollar or two. Who is going to hire me? What kind of a story am I going to do? Maybe nobody will turn up with a job. Believe me, it's nerve-racking."

Cooper is not condemning the movie business. It is part and parcel of his life and will be as long as he has anything to do about it. But, like any job, it has its drawbacks.

"Frankly," admitted Gary, "if I knew of a better way to earn a living I would sure do it. But I get tired sometimes of having folks think it's all cream on this side of the fence. Like the bank vice-president, I've got my complaints, too."

Now that "Distant Drums" is nearing completion, Cooper is considering the persistent invitations of his writing, pal, Ernest Hemingway, to fly down to Cuba for a few weeks rest and fishing.

Senator S. G. Neff Issues Statement On State Tax Issue

Concerning the state tax situation Senator Neff of the Lawrence-Beaver district makes the following statement:

Dear Friends: Governor Fine seems determined to levy a new tax on someone, and at this stage of the game it seems immaterial to him who pays as long as he is able to save face and substantiate his February position that new taxes are necessary.

His latest intended victims being the retail merchants of the commonwealth.

The governor, at the request of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association in his budget message to the General Assembly, demanded a 1/2 of 1 per cent tax on incomes. He attempted to justify this request for $119,000,000 in new taxation by having Dr. Logan, the budget director, present an inaccurate accounting of the commonwealth's position by underestimating the biennial surplus by $13,000,000, underestimating anticipated revenue by $60,000,000 and as a clincher, the governor then padded the budget with another $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 of requests that could well be pared without materially curtailing state services or commitments.

The governor was able to bulldoze this program through the House of Representatives; however, the Senate balked and summarily sent his wage tax measure back to committee to die there.

It is no secret in Harrisburg that the governor knows, as does everyone who is aware of true financial situation of the state, that the demand for a wage tax was not predicted upon need but was made by the governor only to repay the Grundy machine for political aid during the election campaign of last year and was demanded by this group to accelerate the shift of the tax burden from industry to the wage earners and small merchant, professional man and farmer.

The position of the governor at this time, following his unfulfilled insistence upon a new tax to fulfill his campaign commitments to the manufacturers and the apparent failure of the wage tax, is one of saving face.

The victims chosen by the governor as a sacrifice to a political blunder of the first magnitude on his part are to be the retail merchants. The governor has apparently decided that this group of citizens, unorganized politically, will be unable to muster sufficient strength to defeat his new proposal to levy a 1 per cent tax on all retail sales.

I say here now that there will be one vote in the Senate against this proposal and that will be mine, even if I stand alone. I believe this is a discriminatory tax; it is unnecessary and, in the case of the wage tax, motivated by political expediency rather than financial need, and as such, is morally wrong.

Very truly,

SENATOR SAMUEL G. NEFF, State Senator, 47th District.
